Emerging Nurse Researcher

PURPOSE

The purpose of the Honor Society of Nursing, Sigma Theta Tau International (STTI) Emerging Nurse Researcher Award is to recognize a nurse researcher from each of the global regions who is a STTI member whose research has impacted the profession and the people it serves.

ELIGIBILITY

All active STTI members, worldwide, are eligible to be nominated for this award (members may not self-nominate). STTI Board of Directors, STTI staff, STTI consultants and contracted staff, and members of the judging committee are not eligible.

CRITERIA

1. Completed and earned doctorate within in the last five years
2. Demonstrated that research has had an impact in a country or global region on the profession, patients, families, community or policy
3. Demonstrated a record of disseminating research results in professional nursing and/or non-nursing publications and oral and/or poster presentations.
4. Received external funding, university funding or unique organizational support with justified unique context of funding as PI or Co-PI
5. Recognized as an early career investigator and emerging leader whose work is influencing practice, education, administration, research and/or utilization of evidence

SUBMISSION REQUIREMENTS

Supporting documents required below must address the criteria. A complete online nomination consists of:

- Online entry form and payment
- Supporting narrative, using the five criteria as subheadings, that clearly describes area of emerging interest and scope (not exceeding 500 words)
- Three (3) letters of support from diverse sources (excluding nominator) supporting the criteria
- Nominee's curriculum vitae, plus a listing of three to five publications that showcases the criteria, including nursing and non-nursing peer reviewed publications
- Letter of Acceptance - Statement from the nominee agreeing to attend research congress if selected
- Supporting documentation as evidence of nominee's contribution as outlined in the five criteria above (not exceeding seven pages)
